GENERAL INFORMATION

The Faculty of History is one of the oldest faculties of Moscow State University. Today it is an effectively developing modern educational and scientific center and a flagship of liberal education in Russia.

History Faculty of MSU is well-known not only for its high quality education for professional historians and art critics. The distinguishing attribute of the Faculty has always been its emphasis on analytical skills based on profound fundamental knowledge. Classical education in history including specific knowledge in world culture history, ancient languages and information technologies offers a wide range of opportunities at the contemporary labor market. And those opportunities are based on fundamental and systemic approach to education.

Tuition is delivered in Russian and each graduate speaks fluent Russian.

All students at the Faculty of History acquire practical experience in Archeology, Ethnology and work in archives and museums in the course of their studies. Students are entitled to be members of a variety of scientific associations and demonstrate their achievements taking part in the annual Lomonosov conference.

A Bachelor of History has general fundamental and practical skills sufficient for realizing professional tasks and duties.

A Master of History possesses a more profound knowledge of a specific field of historical science and is ready for future research work in his or her specific field.

Graduates of History Faculty are historians and art critics, authors of numerous books, school teachers and university lecturers, work in the field of culture, museums and art galleries, in journalism, politics and diplomacy.

BACHELOR LEVEL

At the Bachelor level we offer two specializations – «History» and «Art History». The former one provides a special program «International Relations History».

Specialization «History». In addition to the basic courses dedicated to various periods of history of different countries all third year students choose one of the following departments to specialize: archeology, ethnology, Russian history from the ancient times till early 19th century, 19th century Russian history, 20th-21st centuries Russian history, Study of Sources, Modern and Contemporary history of Europe and America, Public movements and political parties history, CIS countries history.

Specialization «Art History». Students study such disciplines as figurative art, architecture of different countries and epochs, art history methodology, exhibition management and curatorship.

Special Program «International Relations History» (within the framework of the specialization «History») is designed for those willing to be international politics historians and experts. Students study a variety of such disciplines as history and theory of international relations, history of diplomacy, international law, international organizations etc.

TWO-YEAR EXTERNAL MASTER DEGREE COURSE

Within the framework of the two-year external Master Degree Course we offer two specializations – «History» and «Art History».

An applicant willing to take the external Master Degree Course needs no a Bachelor Degree in History or in Art History.

In addition to the courses mentioned above students can attend some specific Master Degree Courses, such as:

- International Relations History
