

The Comintern and the Western Communist Parties: 1930-1949.

The Communist International (Comintern) was formed in Moscow in 1919. From its establishment to its dissolution in 1943 formed a specific worldwide network of devoted communist cadres. This course examines the relations of the western communist parties with the Comintern. The goal is to understand the way national communist parties interact with the supranational authority of the Communist International. Topics include the centre-periphery debate; the process of Bolshevization; the popular front; the Spanish civil war; the transition from Comintern to Cominform.
